ROBERT L. DYKES #201541,

Plaintiff,

Case No. 2:17-cv-209

v.

HON. PAUL L. MALONEY

THOMAS FINCO, et al.,

Defendants.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

This is a civil rights action brought by state prisoner Robert L. Dykes pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Plaintiff alleges that he was denied an alternative religious meal in violation of his sincerely held religious beliefs. Plaintiff named Thomas Finco, David Leach, D. Rink, and Unknown Guglin as Defendants in his complaint. Defendants filed a motion for summary judgment (ECF No. 16) on the ground that Plaintiff failed to exhaust his available administrative remedies. Plaintiff filed a response (ECF No. 20). Plaintiff filed motions to amend his complaint (ECF No. 18 and No. 23). Plaintiff seeks to voluntarily dismiss Defendant Finco from this action and requests that the Court grant his motion for leave to amend his complaint to add Defendant Kenneth McKee as Deputy Director of the Michigan Department of Corrections. Plaintiff states that his first motion for leave to amend his complaint (ECF No. 18) is now moot.

Summary judgment is appropriate when the record reveals that there are no genuine issues as to any material fact in dispute and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. FED. R. CIV. P. 56(c); Kocak v. Comty. Health Partners of Ohio, Inc., 400 F.3d 466, 468 (6th Cir. 2005); Thomas v. City of Chattanooga, 398 F.3d 426, 429 (6th Cir. 2005). The standard for determining whether summary judgment is appropriate is “whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law.” State Farm Fire & Cas. Co. v. McGowan, 421 F.3d 433, 436 (6th Cir. 2005) (quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 251-52 (1986)); see also Tucker v. Union of Needletrades Indus. & Textile Employees, 407 F.3d 784, 787 (6th Cir. 2005). The court must consider all pleadings, depositions, affidavits, and admissions on file, and draw all justifiable inferences in favor of the party opposing the motion. See Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co., Ltd. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 587 (1986); Twin City Fire Ins. Co. v. Adkins, 400 F.3d 293, 296 (6th Cir. 2005).

A prisoner’s failure to exhaust his administrative remedies is an affirmative defense, which Defendants have the burden to plead and prove. Jones v. Bock, 549 U.S. 199, 212-216 (2007). A moving party without the burden of proof need show only that the opponent cannot sustain his burden at trial. See Morris v. Oldham County Fiscal Court, 201 F.3d 784, 787 (6th Cir. 2000); see also Minadeo v. ICI Paints, 398 F.3d 751, 761 (6th Cir. 2005). A moving party with the burden of proof faces a “substantially higher hurdle.” Arnett v. Myers, 281 F.3d 552, 561 (6th Cir. 2002); Cockrel v. Shelby County Sch. Dist., 270 F.3d 1036, 1056 (6th Cir. 2001). “Where the moving party has the burden -- the plaintiff on a claim for relief or the defendant on an affirmative defense -- his showing must be sufficient for the court to hold that no reasonable trier of fact could find other than for the moving party.” Calderone v. United States, 799 F.2d 254, 259 (6th Cir. 1986) (quoting W. SCHWARZER, Summary Judgment Under the Federal Rules: Defining Genuine Issues of Material Fact, 99 F.R.D. 465, 487-88 (1984)). The United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit repeatedly has emphasized that the party with the burden of proof “must show the record contains evidence satisfying the burden of persuasion and that the evidence is so powerful that no reasonable jury would be free to disbelieve it.” Arnett, 281 F.3d at 561 (quoting 11 JAMES WILLIAM MOORE, ET AL., MOORE’S FEDERAL PRACTICE § 56.13[1], at 56-138 (3d ed. 2000); Cockrel, 270 F.2d at 1056 (same). Accordingly, summary judgment in favor of the party with the burden of persuasion “is inappropriate when the evidence is susceptible of different interpretations or inferences by the trier of fact.” Hunt v. Cromartie, 526 U.S. 541, 553 (1999).

Pursuant to the applicable portion of the Prison Litigation Reform Act (PLRA), 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(a), a prisoner bringing an action with respect to prison conditions under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 must exhaust his available administrative remedies. See Porter v. Nussle, 534 U.S. 516, 532 (2002); Booth v. Churner, 532 U.S. 731, 733 (2001). A prisoner must first exhaust available administrative remedies, even if the prisoner may not be able to obtain the specific type of relief he seeks in the state administrative process. See Porter, 534 U.S. at 520; Booth, 532 U.S. at 741; Knuckles El v. Toombs, 215 F.3d 640, 642 (6th Cir. 2000); Freeman v. Francis, 196 F.3d 641, 643 (6th Cir. 1999). In order to properly exhaust administrative remedies, prisoners must complete the administrative review process in accordance with the deadlines and other applicable procedural rules. Jones v. Bock, 549 U.S. 199, 218-19 (2007); Woodford v. Ngo, 548 U.S. 81, 90-91 (2006). “Compliance with prison grievance procedures, therefore, is all that is required by the PLRA to ‘properly exhaust.’” Jones, 549 U.S. at 218-19. In rare circumstances, the grievance process will be considered unavailable where officers are unable or consistently unwilling to provide relief, where the exhaustion procedures may provide relief, but no ordinary prisoner can navigate it, or “where prison administrators thwart inmates from taking advantage of a grievance process through machination, misrepresentation, or intimidation.” Ross v. Blake, 136 S.Ct. 1850, 1859-1860 (2016).

MDOC Policy Directive 03.02.130 (effective July 9, 2007), sets forth the applicable grievance procedures for prisoners in MDOC custody at the time relevant to this complaint. Inmates must first attempt to resolve a problem orally within two business days of becoming aware of the grievable issue, unless prevented by circumstances beyond his or her control. Id. at ¶ P. If oral resolution is unsuccessful, the inmate may proceed to Step I of the grievance process and submit a completed grievance form within five business days of the attempted oral resolution. Id. at ¶¶ P, V. The inmate submits the grievance to a designated grievance coordinator, who assigns it to a respondent. Id. at ¶ V. The Policy Directive also provides the following directions for completing grievance forms: “The issues should be stated briefly but concisely. Information provided is to be limited to the facts involving the issue being grieved (i.e., who, what, when, where, why, how). Dates, times, places and names of all those involved in the issue being grieved are to be included.” Id. at ¶ R (emphasis in original). “But when prison officials decline to enforce their own procedural rules and instead consider a non-exhausted claim on its merits, a prisoner’s failure to comply with those rules does not create a procedural bar to that prisoner’s subsequent federal lawsuit.” Hardy v. Agee, No. 16-2005, at 3 (6th Cir. Mar. 5, 2018) (unpublished) citing Reed-Bey v. Pramstaller, 603 F.3d 322, 325 (6th Cir. 2010). The Sixth Circuit has explained:

[A] prisoner ordinarily does not comply with MDOCPD 130—and therefore does not exhaust his administrative remedies under the PLRA—when he does not specify the names of each person from whom he seeks relief. See Reed-Bey v. Pramstaller, 603 F.3d 322, 324-25 (6th Cir. 2010) (“Requiring inmates to exhaust prison remedies in the manner the State provides—by, say, identifying all relevant defendants—not only furthers [the PLRA’s] objectives, but it also prevents inmates from undermining these goals by intentionally defaulting their claims at each step of the grievance process, prompting unnecessary and wasteful federal litigation process.”). An exception to this rule is that prison officials waive any procedural irregularities in a grievance when they nonetheless address the grievance on the merits. See id. at 325. We have also explained that the purpose of the PLRA’s exhaustion requirement

“is to allow prison officials ‘a fair opportunity’ to address grievances on the merits to correct prison errors that can and should be corrected to create an administrative record for those disputes that eventually end up in court.” Id. at 324.

If the inmate is dissatisfied with the Step I response, or does not receive a timely response, he may appeal to Step II by obtaining an appeal form within ten business days of the response, or if no response was received, within ten days after the response was due. Id. at ¶¶ T, BB. The respondent at Step II is designated by the policy, e.g., the regional health administrator for a medical care grievances. Id. at ¶ DD. If the inmate is still dissatisfied with the Step II response, or does not receive a timely Step II response, he may appeal to Step III using the same appeal form. Id. at ¶¶ T, FF. The Step III form shall be sent within ten business days after receiving the Step II response, or if no Step II response was received, within ten business days after the date the Step II response was due. Id. at ¶¶ T, FF. The Grievance and Appeals Section is the respondent for Step III grievances on behalf of the MDOC director. Id. at ¶ GG. “The total grievance process from the point of filing a Step I grievance to providing a Step III response shall generally be completed within 120 calendar days unless an extension has been approved . . . .” Id. at ¶ S.

In addition, the grievance policy provides that, where the grievance alleges conduct that falls under the jurisdiction of the Internal Affairs Division pursuant to PD 01.01.140, the prisoner may file his Step I grievance directly with the inspector of the institution in which the prisoner is housed, instead of with the grievance coordinator, as set forth in ¶ V of PD 03.02.130.

<sup>1</sup> In Mattox, the Sixth Circuit held that a prisoner may only exhaust a claim “where he notifies the relevant prison . . . staff” regarding the specific factual claim “giving the prison staff a fair chance to remedy a prisoner’s complaints.” slip op. at 16. For example, grieving a doctor about his failure to give cardiac catheterization failed to grieve the claim that the doctor erred by not prescribing Ranexa.

Id. at ¶¶Q. In such instances, the grievance must be filed within the time limits prescribed for filing grievances at Step I. Id. Regardless of whether the grievance is filed with grievance coordinator or the inspector, the grievance will be referred to the Internal Affairs Division for review and will be investigated in accordance with PD 01.01.140. The prisoner will be promptly notified that an extension of time is needed to investigate the grievance. Id.

Defendants have asserted that Plaintiff filed and exhausted one relevant grievance concerning the matters raised in his complaint. Plaintiff filed a step I grievance, URF 16-06-2311-20E, asserting that he spoke with food Service Director Guglin, MDOC Director Heidi Washington, and MDOC Deputy Director Kenneth McKee asserting that the religious diet violated his beliefs. (ECF No. 17-3, PageID.163). Plaintiff exhausted this grievance through step III. Plaintiff failed to name Defendants Finco, Leach, or Rink in his step I grievance. Plaintiff now concedes that Defendant Finco had no involvement in this matter and should be dismissed.

In the opinion of the undersigned, because Plaintiff failed to name Defendants Finco, Leach, and Rink in a relevant grievance, Plaintiff has failed to properly exhaust his claims against them.

Plaintiff moves for injunctive relief. Plaintiff requests a court order to provide him a religious diet during the months of Ramadan 2019, and “possibly 2020 and beyond.” The issuance of preliminary injunctive relief is committed to the discretion of the district court. Planned Parenthood Association v. City of Cincinnati, 822 F.2d 1390, 1393 (6th Cir. 1987). In exercising that discretion, the court must consider and balance four factors:

1. Whether the movant has shown a strong or substantial likelihood or probability of success on the merits.
2. Whether the movant has shown irreparable injury.
3. Whether the preliminary injunction could harm third parties.

4. Whether the public interest would be served by issuing a preliminary injunction.

Washington v. Reno, 35 F.3d 1093 (6th Cir. 1994). These factors are not prerequisites to the grant or denial of injunctive relief, but factors that must be carefully balanced by the district court in exercising its equitable powers. Id.

Moreover, where a prison inmate seeks an order enjoining state prison officials, this Court is required to proceed with the utmost care and must recognize the unique nature of the prison setting. See Kendrick v. Bland, 740 F.2d 432 at 438, n.3, (6th Cir. 1984). See also Harris v. Wilters, 596 F.2d 678 (5th Cir. 1979). It has also been remarked that a party seeking injunctive relief bears a heavy burden of establishing that the extraordinary and drastic remedy sought is appropriate under the circumstances. See Checker Motors Corp. v. Chrysler Corp., 405 F.2d 319 (2d Cir. 1969), cert. denied, 394 U.S. 999 (1969). See also O’Lone v. Estate of Shabazz, 482 U.S. 342 (1986).

Plaintiff’s “initial burden” in demonstrating entitlement to preliminary injunctive relief is a showing of a strong or substantial likelihood of success on the merits of his Section 1983 action. NAACP v. City of Mansfield, Ohio, 866 F.2d 162, 167 (6th Cir. 1989). A review of the materials of record fails to establish a substantial likelihood of success with respect to Plaintiff’s claim that Defendants have violated his federal rights. Whether Plaintiff is entitled to an alternative religious meal will be determined in this lawsuit. In the opinion of the undersigned, Plaintiff has not presented factual evidence that can support a conclusion, at this time, that he is entitled to the requested relief. Furthermore, Plaintiff has failed to establish that he will suffer irreparable harm absent injunctive relief.

Finally, in the context of a motion impacting on matters of prison administration, the interests of identifiable third parties and the public at large weigh against the granting of an injunction. Any interference by the federal courts in the administration of state prison matters is necessarily disruptive. The public welfare therefore militates against the issuance of extraordinary relief in the prison context, absent a sufficient showing of a violation of constitutional rights. See Glover v. Johnson, 855 F.2d 277, 286-87 (6th Cir. 1988). That showing has not been made here.

Plaintiff filed a “motion to amend his complaint” (ECF No. 18) and “a motion to amend his complaint to prevent imminent harm to the Plaintiff’s case as a result of the error” (ECF No. 23). Plaintiff has moved to amend his complaint to name Deputy Director of the MDOC Kenneth McKee as a Defendant in this matter in place of Defendant Finco. Plaintiff asserts that he sued Defendant Finco by mistake and that it is Kenneth McKee who denied his request for an alternative religious meal. Plaintiff named Deputy Director McKee in his grievance. Leave to amend a complaint “shall be freely given when justice so requires.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a). Plaintiff’s motions are confusing. In his first motion he clearly states that he named Defendant Finco in error and that he should have named Kenneth McKee as a Defendant instead. Plaintiff’s proposed amended complaint asserts his claim against Defendants Kenneth McKee, David Leach, Rink, and Guglin. (ECF No. 18, PageID.166-170). Plaintiff’s second motion to amend his complaint asserts that his first motion is “defected.” (ECF No. 23). Plaintiff explains, once again, that Defendant Finco should not have been named in his lawsuit and that he should have named Kenneth McKee as a Defendant. Plaintiff’s proposed amended complaint names as Defendants Kenneth McKee, and David Leach only. (ECF No. 23-1). Therefore, it appears that Plaintiff intends to abandon his claim against unserved Defendant Guglin. Accordingly, it is recommended that the Plaintiff's motion for leave to amend his complaint be granted and that Defendant Kenneth McKee be served with Plaintiff's amended complaint.

For the foregoing reasons, I recommend that Defendants' motion for summary judgment (ECF No. 16) be granted dismissing Defendant Finco with prejudice and Defendants Leach and Rink without prejudice. It is further recommended that Plaintiff's motion for injunctive relief (ECF No. 19) be denied, Plaintiff's motion to amend his complaint (ECF No. 18) be denied as moot, and Plaintiff's motion to amend his complaint to prevent imminent danger (ECF No. 23) be granted accepting Plaintiff's proposed amended complaint at ECF No. 23-1, PageID.214 as his amended complaint. If the court grants Plaintiff's motion to amend his complaint and accepts the proposed amended complaint, it is recommended that the court dismiss unserved Defendant Guglin from this action and serve the amended complaint on Kenneth McKee/ who would be the only remaining Defendant in this action.
